Demographic Study Mini-Update

December 2020

Boerne ISD has engaged Population and Survey Analysts to conduct a mini-update to the full Demographic Study that was completed in 2019-20. The purpose of this mini update is to provide a cursory update of student population projections, without the expense incurred for another full study. The 2020-21 student population was geo-coded and used as a starting point, and the annual growth projections developed in the 2019-20 study were appended to the current student population.

Caveats:

1. This mini-update method assumes that the rate and locations of new housing growth that were planned as of November 2019 are still true. Of course, plans for new housing always change from year to year, especially given the housing boom experienced throughout Texas in the past six months. Any acceleration in new housing construction that has occurred since the 2019-20 Demographic Study has NOT been re-calculated here. So, it's possible that these enrollment projections could be too low, because more new homes have been and continue to be built and occupied than were projected in the 2019-20 Demographic Study.
2. The 2020-21 enrolled student population is known to be somewhat under-representative of the actual student population living in Boerne ISD this year. Virtually every school district in Texas has had some proportion of its students fail to enroll this year due to health safety concerns associated with the global pandemic. PASA projects that these students will return to the public school system when parents feel secure about health safety, and PASA estimates that about 80% of these students will return next fall, followed by another 15% by October 2022. Therefore, this "COVID recapture" has been included in this mini update of projections.
3. The projected enrollment for October 2021 looks at first glance like a huge and improbable increase over current enrollment. There are two primary reasons for this "growth":
 - a. COVID recapture discussed in #2 above.
 - b. October 2021 enrollment effectively reflects two years' worth of growth. The students withheld from public schools this year due to COVID concerns masked the growth that actually happened between 2019 and 2020 (new houses were built and new students moved in, but some likely did not enroll). Therefore, as these students return to school, the growth between now and October 2021 effectively includes new housing growth that happened both between 2019/2020 and between 2020/2021.

Included in this mini-update:

1. Moderate Growth Scenario – This is the one-page summary of district-wide projections by grade for the next nine years (through the projection period studied in the previous full study).
2. Campus Projections for 2021-22 – This is an in-depth estimate of resident students projected to live in each attendance zone next year, coupled with the inter- and intra-District transfers aged one year from the current student enrollment.
